the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are poor has increased by 1 billion.

There are many reasons for this. One is that the world's population has increased by 1 billion in the last 20 years. Another is that the world's economy has grown by 1 billion in the last 20 years. But the most important reason is that the world's population is growing faster than the world's economy. This means that there are more people in the world than there are jobs, and this is why so many people are poor.

There are many ways to solve this problem. One way is to create more jobs. Another way is to improve the world's economy. But the most important way is to reduce the world's population. This can be done by encouraging people to have fewer children. This is what the United Nations is trying to do with its population program.

The United Nations is a group of countries that work together to solve world problems. One of its main goals is to reduce the world's population. It does this by encouraging people to have fewer children. It also provides education and health care to people in poor countries. This helps them to live better lives and to have fewer children.

The United Nations is a very important organization. It has helped to solve many world problems. One of its most important achievements is the reduction of the world's population. This has helped to make the world a better place to live in. The United Nations is still working to solve world problems, and it is sure to continue to make a difference in the world for many years to come.
